The Job:	The Job:
Building conservation officers promote and preserve historically important buildings by offering advice on how to maintain them. They would work with a wide range of buildings, including houses, churches, windmills, lighthouses and factories. Heritage consultants provide expert guidance and formulate strategies to manage the heritage issues on construction sites.	Museum technicians set up all the exhibitions and displays that you enjoy when visiting a museum. They also unpack and prepare objects and equipment for transporting.	Politicians could be MPs (Members of Parliament), MEPs (Members of the European Parliament) or councillors. They are elected to serve their constituents in parliament, Europe, or local councils, depending on their position. Politicians generally represent a political party, such as Labour, Liberal Democrats or Conservatives, although it is possible to stand for election independently.
